DECORATION DAY.

THE GRAVES OF CONFEDERATE DEAD COVERED WITH FLOWERS.

A Large Crowd in Attendance—The Speech of the Day by Hon. Folk Lafoon.

A large crowd attended the ceremonies at the cemetery Wednesday evening, the occasion being the observance of Confederate Decoration Day. Dinner was served by the ladies of the Memorial Association at Moayan's Hall, where numerous visitors, many from Tennessee, were fed after which the procession, with many carriages, marched to the cemetery, where the ceremonies were held. The decoration took place. Ned Mettewer Bivouac of ex Confederates had the ceremonies in charge. Many veterans from elsewhere were present and took part in the exercises.

A band of music led the way to the cemetery and the veterans followed on foot. The graves of 101 unknown soldiers, buried under the Latham monument, were decorated with flowers and a detail was appointed to decorate the graves of soldiers in other parts of the cemetery.

Capt. C. D. Bell was master of ceremonies and introduced Hon. Folk Lafoon as the orator of the day. His address was eloquent, patriotic and appropriate. At its conclusion Miss Hattie Lee Johnston, the young author, recited the following poem from Father Ryan, in a very happy and graceful manner:

Let our dead together sleep,
Gather the sacred dust
Of the warriors tried and true,
Who bore the flag our nation trust,
And died for me and you.

Wherever the brave have died,
They should not rest apart;
Living they struggled side by side
Why should the hand of death divide
A single heart from another?

Gather them each and all
From the private to the chief,
Once they fought on bloody field,
Over their dust let the fresh tears fall,
Of a nation's holy grief.

No matter whence they came,
Dear is their lifeless clay—
Whether unknown or known, famous—
Their cause and country were the same
They died—and we were the gayer.

Gather the corpses strewn
O'er many a battle plain;
From many a grave that lies so lone,
Without a name and without a stone,
Gather the bones of men.

And the dead shall meet the dead,
While the living over them weep;
For the men who Lee and Stonewall led,
And the hearts that once together bled,
Should now lie together deep.

The ceremonies concluded with some stirring selections of music.

Received Their Diplomas.

The commencement exercises of South Kentucky College were concluded Wednesday night with an entertainment at the Opera House. The following graduates received diplomas:

Degree B. S.—Grace Garnett Walden, Ellis Gale Wood.

Degree B. S.—Norburn Ragon Faris, Harry Knight Anderson, Sheila Balfour Auld, Sallie Edna Jones, Roberta Guyan Green.

The musical program given in Tuesday's Kentucky was carried out, all of the young ladies and gentlemen acquitting themselves most creditably.

A Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Thos. W. Long, while out riding on her bicycle Tuesday afternoon came near being seriously hurt. She had just alighted from the wheel when the horse driven by Mrs. E. H. Anderson ran into the wheel. Mrs. Long was thrown violently to the ground and sustained a number of bad bruises. The animal was quickly stopped, thus averting what might have proven a fatal accident. Mrs. Long will be able to get out in a day or two.

Killed a Mad Dog.

Robt. Davis, of this city, was attacked by a rabid dog on the farm of Mr. Davis Wilkins, in the Antioch neighborhood, Tuesday. Mr. Davis fired two loads of shot and five pistol balls into the body of the animal before it was despatched.

GILBERT LOWRY—Mr. Geo. S. Gilbert, a Clarksville native, and Miss Lula B. Lowry, daughter of Col. S. J. Lowry, of Garrettburg, were married at Olivet Baptist church Wednesday morning. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for the South on a bridal tour. On their return they will reside in Clarksville.

Although the assault committed upon Mrs. Trimble near Adairville last Friday evening continues to be freely discussed, there is yet no clue to the perpetrator of the deed. Mrs. Trimble is now entirely convalescent and at no time has been in danger of death.

With seven districts unreported, Jones has 123 instructed votes and Harrod 125 for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Arkansas.

PRIMARIES IN OHIO.

Silver Rules the Day in the Buckeye State.

Cincinnati, June 8.—The Democratic primaries of Hamilton county to-night resulted in the election of sixty six silver and two gold delegates to the Democratic State convention at Columbus, June 23. The primaries were by popular vote under the Bailey law. There was no convention. Of 6,219 votes 5,756 were cast for the silver ticket, and the city of Cincinnati cast 4,000 silver votes.

The returns tonight from other counties show the delegates selected up to date to the State convention as follows: Silver 507, gold 14, unreturned 23.

Wedding Near Howell.

Howell, June 10.—A very swell wedding occurred at Olivet church near Howell June 3rd, at 9 o'clock p. m. The high contracting parties being Mr. Thos. F. Clardy and Miss Nell Hester Fox, both of this vicinity. The ceremony was performed by Rev. McCarty of Providence, Tenn. The bride party were preceded to the altar by four ushers, viz: Messrs. Douglas Bell and Rawlins Clardy; followed by the four couples of attendants, Dr. Austin Bell, Miss Cecil Holloway, Mr. U. L. Clardy, Miss Bertha Barrow, Mr. Ernest Coleman, Miss Esala Harrison, coming in singly from opposite aisles crossing at the altar. The bride entered leaning on the arm of Miss Mary Clardy, she being maid of honor, while Mr. Clardy came from the opposite aisle with Mr. P. T. Fox, his best man.

Truly it was a pretty scene; the bride and groom were beautifully decorated for the occasion. The draperies and flowers being white, and the organ pealed forth the wedding march, under the skilled touch of Miss Donnell the ladies looked like fairies as they slowly moved in the soft mellow light. They were all dressed in white, evening dress, wore and carried natural white flowers. The gentlemen were becomingly attired in the conventional black suits, wore white gloves and ties. Taken as a whole the party was exceptionally a handsome one. The bride is the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fox, both long since deceased, and comes from one of the best families in the state. She is decidedly of the blonde type, is a very intelligent and lovely young lady; her attractions cannot be called of her pretty face, but her lovely disposition, her pleasant manners, friendly pleasing address, not only made her quite a favorite with the guests, but the older ones and the children. She was said by many to have been the most popular lady in the Howell neighborhood, and to say Miss Nell will be missed expresses it mildly. Mr. Clardy is to be congratulated in securing the heart and hand of so attractive, lovely a lady. Mr. Clardy is a son of Mr. Jas. M. Clardy, is engaged in mercantile business at Howell, is a promising young man and is decidedly popular.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride party repaired to Mrs. Lizzy Clardy's home, where they were given an elegant reception and then, and with whom they have taken rooms and board. On Thursday night the party was entertained at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Clardy, where a tempting repast was spread. Friday night Miss Cecil Holloway invited the party to accompany her home, where they were royally entertained.

They were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents, too numerous to mention.

It is with much reluctance that Howell society gives up Miss Nell, she will prove a valuable addition to the Bell neighborhood, and carries with her the best wishes of everybody.

It was announced Saturday that Miss Jennie Tompkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tompkins, of Daviess and Mr. Curtis Montgomery, of Shelby, had been secretly married.

December. Mr. Montgomery was a member of the Sophomore class in Centre College and the main reason, it is said, for keeping the marriage secret was that he wanted to wait until college closed. The groom, who is about twenty-one, is an orphan, but is said to own considerable landed property in Carroll county, where he and his wife will live on a farm—Daviess Advocate.

Dixon C. Williams, of Chicago, Ill., a Cumberland Presbyterian evangelist, who was vice-president of the Chicago Manufacturing Co., 240 to 248 West Lake street, had a difficulty with "Hack" Miller, a lively stable man at the Palace at St. Louis, which resulted in Williams dangerously cutting Miller with a knife in the abdomen. Miller is in a critical condition, there is yet no clue to the origin of the difficulty was a misun derstanding over an order for a lively team.

HUNTING FOR A BURGLAR.

First Experience of the New Policeman When the Alarm Was Given.

Mrs. F. M. Barnes occupies the handsome stone building, 232 Central park, west, at the corner of Eighty-fourth street. Last fall thieves got into the residence and carried away several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds. The police made an investigation, but did not recover the diamonds or capture the thieves, says the New York World.

Ever since the robbery the members of the Barnes household have kept watch for burglars. Extra chaises and lockets are placed on the doors and the servants make the rounds every night to see that everything is in order. In view of all this it is not surprising that their entire household was thrown into a small panic at 11 o'clock the other morning, when it was discovered by one of the members of the family that the chain was off and the front door unlocked and open.

Mr. Barnes shouted "thieves!" her son shouted "thieves!" and in fact the entire household shouted "thieves!" The ladies of the family became hysterical and gathered in the parlor, expecting every minute to see a highwayman or a safe crackman emerge from his hiding place and attack them. When young Mr. Barnes heard the noise he said he would look for the police. He did not wait to put on all his clothes. He simply put on a big ulster and rushed out of the house. Mr. Barnes ran down Central park, west, and saw a policeman quietly pacing his beat. The policeman, William E. Hill, who is young and athletic, Hill had been a full-fledged member of the force just two days, but Mr. Barnes did not know this. Hill wore a brand new uniform and in his hip pocket he carried a big revolver, which was loaded, and a well-polished rosewood billy. The billy has not yet seen service.

"Officer," shouted Mr. Barnes, excitedly, "I want you to come with me in a hurry."

"What is it?" inquired Hill.

"Burglars, I suppose," said the young man. "You remember the diamond robbery that occurred in our house?"

Policeman Hill did not recall the incident, but having visions of burglars handcuffed to himself and a big reward, and probably even an opportunity to shake the hand of Police Commissioner Roosevelt, he started on a double-quick up the avenue, closely followed by young Mr. Barnes.

"Here," said the policeman, said young Mr. Barnes, as he entered the house. The ladies in the parlor were very much pleased to see the new guardian of the peace. They told him to be very careful indeed.

Policeman Hill had never met a real burglar in his life. At any rate he had never had the pleasure of putting one under arrest. To investigate a real burglar, and at a fashionable place, was a novelty to him. The first thing Hill did was to examine the front door. It was there all right, and so was the chain.

Well Satisfied with Ayer's Hair Vigor.

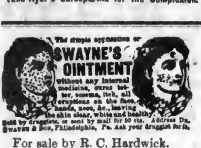

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray. I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, and was so well satisfied with the results that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It requires only an occasional application of to keep my hair of good color, to remove dandruff, to heal itching humors, and prevent the hair from falling out. I never hesitate to recommend Ayer's medicine to my friends."—Mrs. L. M. HAIGIT, Avoca, Nebr.

The w. raman often eats his lunch on the same towel he does his work. The office man turns his desk into a dining-table. Neither gets the out of doors exercise he sees a triphike takes the proper time for eating. It is small wonder that the digest-on of both get out of order. In such a case Dr. Pierce's Sarsaparilla comes to their assistance. It is a living nature in taking care of the food.

The cause of nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is constipation. From this one cause come innumerable disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys; biliousness, headaches, flatulence, heartburn, impurity of the blood and the various complications that follow. To begin with, constipation is a little thing, and a little thing will cure it. The "pleasant Pellets" are tiny sugar coated granules. They will perfectly cure the worst case of constipation and indigestion. If the druggist try to sell you some other pill he says him greater profit, just think of what will best pay you.

Bill Nye often spoke his witty remarks with the greatest truth. Among the most noticeable, most lively and most apropos is the following: "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; or ride on the back end of a train to save interest on his money; or use a conductor comes around; stop his watch at night to save the wear and tear, leave his 'I' and 'I' without a dot cross to save ink; pasture his mother's grave to save corn; but a man of this kind is a gentleman and a scholar compared to a fellow who takes a horse to the river and when asked to pay for it, puts it into the post-office and have it marked 'refused'."—Louisville Commercial.

MILK JARS.
The Origin of a Package That is Now in Common Use.

Milk jars, or bottles, now so commonly used, were introduced about 15 years ago. A gentleman farmer of Litchfield, Conn., a man of wealth, who owned blooded cows, finding, with the increase of his stock, his milk supply growing beyond his own needs, decided to sell the surplus. He desired to put up his milk in some distinctive form, and came to New York to the headquarters here of glass works, and asked to have got up for him some kind of a glass package that would be suitable for the purpose and convenient for shipping. A jar was produced that was substantially similar in form to the one now in use. The first jars were provided with glass stoppers; these were found to break too soon, and a metal stopper was soon substituted. This form of package for milk at once became popular. The owner of the farm for which the milk jar was first made turned his farm over to a stock company, which increased its production greatly. It still remains a large establishment and one whose dairy products are well known. Adopted the milk jar, and its general use extended rapidly. Probably at least 75 per cent of the milk for family use is delivered now in bottles. There are millions of bottles in constant use, and the number produced annually to make good the breakage and to supply the increasing demand is about 20,000 gross.—N. Y. Sun.

Talking Without a Tongue.

Ability to talk without a tongue seems a paradox, but a Bradford (Pa.) doctor is evidence in his own person that it is possible. Dr. A. M. Williams was afflicted with a disease which rendered necessary the removal of the entire tongue, the left tonsil, and some neighboring glands. With these gone, according to general belief, speech would be impossible. Yet Dr. Williams "can speak as well as he fairly well understood," a correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger reports, and he has expectations that within a short time his speech will greatly improve. In studying out the subject of speech the doctor discovered that persons are "right" or "left" in the use of the organs of the mouth and throat, as they are in the use of the hands. In his own case he was "left" in the use of the mouth and throat muscles—a circumstance which makes his ability to talk the more remarkable, because some of the organs of the left side had been removed with the tongue. He is inclined to the theory that while the preferred use of the right or left hand is generally a case of education or choice, the involuntary discrimination which leads to the use of one set of throat muscles in most cases the result of heredity.

Bank of England Notes.

The Bank of England note is not of the same thickness all through. The paper is thicker in the left hand corner to enable it to take better and sharper impression of the vignette there, and is also considerably thicker in the dark corners of the note to enable it to take better figures at the ends. Counterfeit notes are invariably of one thickness.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osceola, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I have the idea that it is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quick nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other harmful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Knickerbocker, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merit of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Dr. Clardy Should Be Endorsed.

It is now less than sixty days until the congressional primaries will be held and Hon. J. D. Clardy has no announced opposition for the congressional nomination. Several gentlemen have been suggested as candidates, but none of them so far made a formal entrance into the race. The impression is now pretty generally fixed over the district that the talked of opposition will not materialize and that Dr. Clardy will be given the usual endorsement of a renomination, without a contest. This is as it should be. Dr. Clardy is undoubtedly the strongest candidate we can present at this time. He held the district secure to the Democratic moorings in 1894 by nearly 3,000 majority, when the Republican hand struck the rest of the country with such force. He more than any other man can do so this year. His career in congress has been one of faithful service, close attention to the public business and consistent advocacy of the principles of the party. The interests of his constituents have been carefully guarded, and the passage of the tobacco bill gives promise of substantial benefit to the people, not only for his own district, but of the whole country as well. It is an unwritten law of the district that a faithful public servant is entitled to the endorsement of a renomination. We cannot believe that the people of the district will feel inclined to make an exception to this rule in the present instance. Dr. Clardy is in harmony with the Democratic platform in all respects. He has been a consistent advocate of double standard Democracy when it was not as popular to take such a stand as will be hereafter, now that the question upon which differences existed has been settled within the party for some years to come at least. He is no new convert to the "old time revision" that is "good enough for all." He has always been strong for bimetalism, but at the same time conservative and willing to respect the opinions of those who did not agree with him. As a result of this, he has many strong supporters among the gold-standard Democrats, who are earnestly advocating his renomination as the logical and winning candidate at this crisis in our political affairs.

Dr. Clardy strong among the farmers and as the district is an agricultural section, his greatest strength is with the dominant class of voters. This vote constitutes the great reserve strength of the party in doubtful contests and must be brought out in times of danger. No other man is better qualified to organize and entice the farmers than Dr. Clardy, who is personally acquainted with farmers in every voting precinct in the district.

He can stir up the country Democrats, bring out the silent vote and bring back into line the district, that last year gave a plurality of more than 400 for the Republican ticket. With him as the nominee, the majority would be even larger than it was two years ago. It is doubtful if there would be any other candidate besides the weak and discredited nominee of the Republican party. It is at least the 6,000 or 7,000 Republicans in the district could be relied upon to vote almost to a man against Franks and for Dr. Clardy. Most of these voters are farmers and were formerly Democrats and Dr. Clardy more than any other leader is in a position to lead them back to their "first love," because he is himself a farmer and a silver man. All things considered, Dr. Clardy possesses so many elements of strength that he should be given the compliment of a renomination by acclamation when the convention meets at Madisonville August 10. The stream we have to cross is wide and deep and this is not a good time to swap horses.

THE APPELLATE JUDGESHIP.

The State convention being over the attention of our people will soon be called to another very important matter, the election of an Appellate Judge to fill the vacancy resulting from Judge Grace's death. No office in the gift of the people of the State is of greater importance, and no higher duty rests upon the citizen than that of filling it with a lawyer of ability, integrity and industry. Already the court is so behind that justice is almost denied to the citizen who is so unfortunate as to have his rights involved in legal controversy.

Henderson county presents to the district an aspirant for the Democratic nomination to that high office. Mr. Yeaman is a Democrat who has never faltered in his support of the nominees of his party, on the contrary he has always been outspoken and active in their support.

Excepting his candidacy two years ago for this position, he has never been a candidate for office. His life has been devoted to the pursuit of his profession and the discharge of the duties of a private citizen with such success that he is known throughout the State as among the ablest of her lawyers and as among her most influential citizens. He is in full maturity of his intellectual and physical manhood, with an industry rarely equaled and a mental training that enables him to make every effort effective in the accomplishment of his purpose. His intellect is clear and forcible. In his grasp of legal questions and the expounding of them in his decisions he would do as much and as good work as has been done by any member of the court. To the Democracy of the district we commend him as the equal of any man in the State for this elevated position, which the Democracy is called upon to fill at the November election—Gleaser.

Hon. Malcolm Yeaman, of Henderson county, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Appellate Judge of the First Kentucky District. Mr. Yeaman is a lawyer of eminent ability, irreproachable moral character and strong in mental and physical vigor. He has been a student all of his life and his learning is manifested in his pleadings, in his speeches and in his daily conversation alike. He is not only an able and learned lawyer but a true gentleman in the strictest sense. One might associate with him for years and not a single ungentlemanly act of his would mar the association.

He is not a fin de siècle politician. And The Sun knows of no recommendation more favorable to his candidacy than can be offered than this: He has never become contaminated in every day struggles for spoils; he has not been the height of his ambition to have at his disposal the distribution of the offices in his district. In a nutshell his political record is clean, unblemished by demagogic appeals to the prejudices of classes or sections or any of the other strategic and insincere methods of the latter-day office-seeker.—Morganfield Sun.

Hon. Malcolm Yeaman was Judge Grace's strongest competitor for the nomination two years ago, and he made an admirable impression upon the convention that nominated Judge Grace. Mr. Yeaman is in the prime of life and vigor; and has long been regarded as one of the very ablest lawyers in Kentucky.

He is not only a gentleman of fine legal ability, but also of the highest scholastic attainments; and his social qualities are delightful.

If he should be elected to succeed Judge Grace, he will honor the place, and add strength to law and literary acquirement to Kentucky's Court of Last Resort. He is a Democrat whose party fealty has never been questioned and whose creed has known no changing.

We commend Mr. Yeaman to the Democrats of the district as a very worthy of their support.—Edwysville Tale of Two Cities.

Since the country has gone for silver, Russell, of Massachusetts, who has the instructed votes of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, announces that his name will not be presented in the Chicago convention, for President.

More

Medicinal value in a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other preparation. More skill is required, more care and more expense incurred in its manufacture. It costs the proprietor and the dealer more but it costs the consumer less, as he gets more done for his money. Quicker power is secured by its peculiar combination, proportion and process, which make it peculiar to itself. People are employed and more space occupied in its Laboratory than any other. Wonderful cures effected and more testimonials received than by any other. Siles and more, increase year by year are reported by druggists. People are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla today than any other, and more are taking it today than ever before. And still more reasons might be given why you should take

FIGURES CAN'T LIE.

(Lansletville Critic.)

The assurance of a Western Democrat as a candidate for President on a free silver platform means the Democratic party has taken the only chance that could possibly leave it in control of the national government. The goldbug newspapers will argue that the highway to perdition is paved with silver dollars at the rate of 16 to 1 and that the party is going down that thoroughfare better sheltered to destruction. But a dispassionate look at the situation does not justify so hopeless a prophecy. The gold men have the East and they are welcome to it, but that portion of the national domain, the West and the South, which has been the greatest sufferers from the single standard policy, is a unit for free coinage.

A comparison of the electoral votes will prove how rocky are the possibilities of Democratic success. Here are the States that can be safely counted for gold:

Connecticut	6
Delaware	6
Maine	6
Maryland	6
Massachusetts	16
New Hampshire	4
New Jersey	10
New York	36
Pennsylvania	32
Rhode Island	4
Vermont	4

Total.....128
The following States are certain to cast their votes for free silver:

Alabama	11
Arkansas	8
California	8
Colorado	4
Florida	4
Georgia	13
Idaho	3
Indiana	16
Kentucky	13
Louisiana	8
Mississippi	9
Missouri	17
Montana	3
Nevada	3
North Carolina	11
North Dakota	3
Oregon	4
South Dakota	4
Tennessee	12
Texas	12
Utah	4
Virginia	12
West Virginia	6
Washington	4
Wyoming	3

Total.....206

The remaining States can be classified as doubtful although Illinois, Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska all have a strong free-silver sentiment among their people:

Iowa	13
Kansas	10
Michigan	14
Minnesota	9
Nebraska	8
Ohio	12
Wisconsin	12
Illinois	24

Total.....118

The total electoral vote is 447, and 224 votes are necessary to elect. A summary shows:

For silver	206
For gold	128
Doubtful	128

If the free-silver candidate carries Illinois he will win and have six votes to spare. If he carries Michigan and Nebraska he will be elected. If he carries Wisconsin and Nebraska he is certain of victory.

the result. The answers showed 27 for Boies, 12 for Teller, 5 for Stevenson, 2 for Matthews, 2 for Campbell and one each for Blackburn and Hill, and two in infinite. On the question of election, 25 predicted the election of the Republican ticket, 17 thought the Democrats would win and 11 believed the election would be thrown into the House. All but two or three thought the Chicago platform would be straight out for free silver.

Judge Malcolm Yeaman, of our neighboring county of Henderson, should and we believe will receive the vote of Christian county in the appellate district convention July 31. In point of ability and merit he is the equal if not the superior of any man in the race, and our people should see that his claims are not put aside for those of less deserving candidates.

The city of Cincinnati went for silver Monday by 4000 majority in a primary election. Only two gold delegates out of 68 were elected to the State convention. This result may be attributed in a great measure to the excellent work done by the Enquirer in educating the people. Ohio is now safely anchored in the silver column at Chicago.

Jos. Stultz, of Louisville, who was sent to the penitentiary 7 years ago for swearing falsely in regard to the age of Carrie Ashby, a 14 year old girl whom he married, was released a few days ago, having served out his term. Stultz at once sought his former wife and remarried her, this time without objection.

Members of county committees in the Second district, who desire to tender their resignations as such, should forward them to Hon. S. A. Young, of Henderson, who has charge of the reorganization of the party in this district. County chairmen should also notify him of any vacancies to be filled.

The Bardonia Record is publishing a call for a committee meeting issued by "J. J. Whitworth, Chairman Fourth District Committee." The Chairman of that committee is now Hon. Geo. S. Fulton, of Bardonia, who became such on the 4th last, when the party machinery was reorganized.

Attorney General Harmon, of Cincinnati; another member of the Cabinet, was unable to keep his home county from going for free silver by a vote of 66 to 12. In the interest of Harmony, Gen. Harmon should move to make it unanimous.

It is very unfortunate for Louisville that she should have so misunderstood the people of Kentucky. The metropolis should have been first in the great cause of constitutional money.—Henderson Gleaser.

Nastus will not be entertained at the first-class hotels in St. Louis and as most of the Southern delegates are negroes, there is much kicking and complaining over the complication that has arisen.

Col. Fred D. Grant, of New York, and U. S. Grant, Jr., of California, sons of Gen. U. S. Grant, are both mentioned as candidates for Vice-President on the McKinley ticket.

MAN OF MANY DUTIES.

The English Home Secretary and the Work He Has to Do.

There is no man in the British empire in the service of the crown whose duties are of more varied character than are those of the secretary of state for the home department. He acts as channel for all communications between the queen and her subjects in every matter that does not fall specifically within the province of another secretary of state. He communicates her majesty's wishes both to individuals and public bodies, from the church down to the latest yacht club which wishes to style itself "royal." He receives and sends on to the queen all petitions and addresses of congratulation and condolence, some written on simple sheets of paper, others like those of the University of Oxford on vellum with a gorgeous seal in a silver box. He stores up in big leather cases the permits given by the queen and her predecessors to members of the royal family to marry, and likewise has to arrange all the public ceremonies in which he takes part. He naturalizes aliens, administers oaths through governors the ruler of the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man and takes a notable part in the creation of peers and baronets and in the appointment of police magistrates. It is likewise his duty to be present at the coronation of any royal prince or princess, so as to set at rest any fears on the part of the people lest another than a royal child should be foisted upon the nation. This custom dates back to the reign of King James II., who was always credited with having substituted a plebeian-born male child for the princess to whom the queen is declared to have given birth. The home secretary is responsible for the law and order of the land. He is the head governor of all her majesty's prisons. He administers the burial acts, acts as minister of labor and is responsible for the enforcement of all laws which have been enacted in connection with mines, factories, rivers and the like. Last, but not least, he combines in his own person the supreme court of appeal. He is assisted in the matter by a trained and energetic staff constantly at work, examining, weighing and reporting on petitions for pardons and for remission of sentences. The convenience and flexibility of such a court of appeal as this are very great. Evidence in a court of law is a highly technical matter and many important circumstances which are excluded from judicial procedure have, when brought to the knowledge of the home secretary, must excite sympathy. It is this board of advice, the very existence of which the public ignores, that has advised Sir Matthew to decline to liberate Mrs. Maybrick, just in the same way that it persuaded his liberal predecessor, Mr. Asquith, to refuse. But Sir Matthew is in no wise bound to follow its recommendations, since it is composed merely of subordinate clerks in the department.—Marquette de Fontenay, in Chicago Record.

A Sanguine Terror.

A remarkable dog story is reported from Leicester. A Bible woman was in one of the wards—the accident ward—of the local infirmary recently, and was talking to one of the patients, when a terrier made its way to her with difficulty from near one of the adjoining beds, and appealingly held up one of its forepaws. She called the attention of one of the doctors to the animal, and it was then found that the limb was broken. The bones were set and a bed made up for the canine sufferer in the ward, due instruction being entered upon the patient's card as to his treatment and diet. The animal progressed favorably and became a general favorite with both the patients and officials, until a day or two ago, when it was claimed by its owner and taken away. How the terrier found its way to the infirmary is not known, but it entered the institution unobserved and, curiously enough, was found in the accident ward.—Westminster Gazette.

Asbestos for Boots.

Every day brings out some new use for asbestos. Now it is proposed to use it in the soles of boots. Asbestos wool, pressed by hydraulic force into thin sheets, waterproofed on one side, is to be inserted as the middle sole. Asbestos is non-conductor of heat, ergo cold, and in conjunction with a waterproof material will have the effect of counteracting the influences of heat, cold and moisture. It is said that asbestos lined boots cannot crack in wear, and are much more flexible than ordinary boots. A man wearing asbestos boots can walk over live electric wires in safety, as it is a non-conductor.—N. Y. Journal.

"Sad accident this morning," said the shoe clerk boarder. "Man got his foot run over by a trolley car." "And I suppose," said the cheerful clerk, "that he immediately came out flat-footed for getting damages."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE POPE'S HOLY ROSE.

This Year It Will Be Presented to Princess Ferdinand of Bulgaria.

It is Princess Ferdinand of Bulgaria whom the pope intends to present the golden rose this year as a recognition of the efforts which she made to prevent the conversion of her little three-year-old boy, the Crown Prince Boris, from the Roman Catholic to the Greek faith. This golden rose is the greatest distinction which the holy father has in his power to confer upon members of any sect, and, contrary to the belief that prevails here in America, it has never been granted to any woman who was not either a crowned head or a princess of the blood, the token of papal regard sent to Miss Gwendolyn Caldwell having been a mere gold medal and not the golden rose, as has been frequently asserted in print.

The rose is made of pure gold and possesses an intrinsic value of about $10,000. The center rose, in the middle of which is a little opening into which the pope pours the rose balsam, is surrounded with smaller rosebuds and leaves. The whole rosebush stands in a golden pot, on the side of which are the pope's arms and an inscription. The rose is blessed each year by the holy father on Wednesday and is immediately afterward sent to royal ladies distinguished for their loyalty to the pope and to the church.

Two members of the court of the Vatican, a prelate and a noble guard, are charged to convey the rose to the lady to whom it has been awarded, and by whom the traveling expenses are paid, amounting to $3,000 apiece. On their arrival at their destination they are conveyed in court carriages, garlanded with white roses, natural or artificial, to the palace, in the courtyard of which the troops present arms and the drums roll.

The ceremony of presentation of the rose usually takes place in the palace chapel during the course of a pontifical mass. Throughout the earlier portion of the celebration the rose is placed on the altar, and after the "Te igitur" has been chanted the ablegate reads the pope's letter, while the noble guard hands the rose to the officiating nuncio or cardinal. The latter thereupon places the rose next to the heart of the royal lady kneeling before him, exclaiming: "Ecce rosa mystica, domum Sanctissimi Patris," to which the royal lady replies: "Deo gratias." The choir and clergy then chant the Te Deum, and after the benediction the sovereign usually confers decorations upon the papal envoys.

Such is the ceremony which is destined to take place a few weeks hence at Sofia.—Chicago Record.

HEIRESS TO MILLIONS.

A New Jersey Woman's Good Luck Through a Godmother.

Madame Eleanore Gaudin of Woodcliff, N. J., has, it is reported, inherited $17,000,000. The New York Herald, which relates the story, says that she was born in the midst of the Pyrenean mountains some 18 years ago. Her maiden name was Eleanore Marie Emanuel. She was left a widow when quite young, and found herself almost penniless. Her aunt and godmother at that time lived in California, and by the assistance of an American lady named Louise Jackson, she came to this country. On her arrival here she discovered the difficulty of finding her godmother and earned her living as a dressmaker.

While thus engaged a California lawyer called on her, representing himself as the executor of the will of Mrs. Emilie Pinaud, formerly of France, afterward of South America, but more recently of California. She was the lost godmother of Mrs. Gaudin, and had married a man named Pinaud while in France, with whom she had gone to South America, where he engaged in the tanning business, making a huge fortune, which he carefully invested. There was one child of his union. According to the law of France the birth of a child leaves the widow absolute possessor at his death of one-half of her husband's fortune. Mrs. Pinaud died worth $34,000,000. Mrs. Gaudin is heiress to her aunt and godmother, and her fortune is, therefore, $17,000,000.

Shoes of the Gauls.

Before the Gauls were conquered by the Romans they had boots or shoes with soles in which were silver-headed nails. Some of these have been discovered in late years. The later kind of boots and shoes—so long pointed ones—so familiar in pictures of the fourteenth century, and others, are more generally known.

Regulate the Dresses.

The East Stroudsburg (Pa.) school board is considering a resolution recently offered prohibiting girl graduates from wearing elaborate and costly dresses on commencement day. The girls are naturally indignant at the attempt to deprive them of the time-honored privilege of looking their sweetest at graduation.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

Safe-blowers made a good haul at Liberty.

Senator Blackburn has returned to Washington.

Mr. J. D. Yonts, a prominent merchant, died at Greenville.

L. Conley shot and fatally wounded Sam Walters in Johnson county.

At Elizabethtown Hon. C. W. White was indicted for carrying concealed and deadly weapons.

Senator Cullom says his name will not be presented at the St. Louis convention.

Wm. McClain, a colored murderer, has been given a death sentence in Louisville.

Hon. Albert S. Willis has decided not to enter the race for Congress. He will return to Henderson.

John Miller and James Fugate were crushed by a log in Pike county and perhaps fatally injured.

Thomas F. Triplett and James A. Butler failed at Millersburg, each with liabilities of $10,000.

William H. Carr, a freshman at Centre College, eloped with Miss Alta Pope, and the two were married at Lenoir.

The veterans of the Mexican war are meeting with a cordial welcome at Lexington, where they are holding their annual reunion.

Arthur Herrin, a prominent young man of Mt. Vernon, committed suicide in the presence of Mrs. Addie Clifford, a widow who had rejected his love.

Miss Jennie Todd, of Lexington, and Edward Henderson, of Vincennes, Ind., who met Monday for the first time, were married at the former place Tuesday evening.

The House by a vote of 116 to 107 unseated Congressman Underwood, of the Birmingham district, of Alabama, and gave the place to Mr. Aldrich.

The session of the Court of Appeals may be extended to July. The Louisville suits will be decided before adjournment. Intimation is strong that in all four cases the judgment will be affirmed.

Sam Clain, a negro, thirty-two years old, attempted to assault Mrs. Ike Benner, aged thirty-five, who lives about ten miles southeast of Fulton. Screams for help frightened the negro and he fled before he had accomplished his purpose. A large posse of men is in the woods trying to find Clain. He will be lynched if caught.

Turning the Tables.

Many people in Omaha, Neb., are opposed to the curfew ordinance, compelling children to be at home by nine o'clock at night, which went into effect recently. They are preparing a new ordinance, which a councilman will introduce, which is exactly like the curfew ordinance except that it is made to apply to married men instead of children. It is sure of a few votes in the council, although perhaps it is not expected that it will pass.

Where Tea Is Not Popular.

If you call for tea at a restaurant in Caracas, the proprietor will send to the nearest drug store for it, and express a regret that you are ill. The native Venezuelan regards tea as a most unpleasant beverage and to be used only medicinally. It is not kept in any of the hotels, and when it is especially ordered the quality is simply abominable—for all the world like a dose of senna.

Wash the spinach thoroughly, and boil it very tender in salted water; drain in a colander and chop it until it becomes a smooth, soft mass. Then put it on the fire in a pan, with a good-sized piece of butter, mixing it well with the spinach; add salt to taste, a very little sugar and a wine glass or more of rich cream. Simmer a little until thoroughly hot, and serve on a hot dish surrounded by diamonds of bread fried in butter.—Philadelphia Press.

Valuable Gold Lands.

A New York syndicate has acquired a gold property in California, from which assays have been made running as high as $129,000 to the ton. The property, which is 2,000 feet long on the vein and 600 feet wide, is situated on a mountain of the Sierra Nevada range, 26 miles north of Nevada City. It is at the head of the famous placer mining field opened in 1849 and from which $400,000,000 in gold was taken.

Had the blues, and gave up. Last February I felt very badly. I kept getting worse until I was almost mad. I could not love my own children. I was on the brink of suicide. Finally I got a bottle of Dr. O. A. Carlstedt's German Liver Syrup. That night, for the first time in months, I slept well and began to improve. Now I am well and a truly happy woman. Mrs. T. O. Schmidt, Milwaukee, Wis.

FROM AN ARTESIAN WELL.

Strange Animals Now Being Examined by Experts in Washington. Zoological experts at the Smithsonian Institution are busy studying and inventing names for the strange animals caught up by the wonderful artesian well at San Marcos, Tex. The cavity struck by the drill was undoubtedly the tunnel of a subterranean river. That the waters of this underground stream are full of life is satisfactorily proved by the great number of animals of various kinds which are thrown out at the surface through the artesian pipe. But it is not their quantity that excites astonishment nearly so much as their strange character. All of them appear to belong to species hitherto wholly unknown to science. There are shrimps of a queer kind, of which the well yields about half a pint a day, on an average—now-bugs of a new genus, not related to any hitherto found in fresh water, and, most remarkable of all, salamanders six inches long with surprisingly developed legs.

All of the species of animals thus far brought to the surface are blind and colorless, resembling those that respect the crustaceans and batrachians of the great caves, where there is everlasting night. Dr. Stejneger, who knows much about salamanders as any man living, has been making a special study of the San Marcos specimens. He finds that they have no near relatives with which science is acquainted in this kind or abroad. Their nearest kin are the so-called mud-puppies of our streams and certain batrachians of Austrian caverns. They have remarkably long legs, and their noses are shovel-shaped.

Most numerous by far among the creatures cast up from the depths have been the shrimps. They are about three-quarters of an inch long, colorless and blind. In and attached to their bodies are found immense numbers of parasitic protozoa, which are nearly related to the micro-organisms that breed malaria in the human system. This fact has an interesting bearing upon the theory hitherto accepted that artesian water is necessarily free from malaria miasmas. The shrimps already referred to, which are crustaceans, have only been familiar up to now as salt water forms. They get a living commonly by attaching themselves to fishes, out of whose gills they take the large blood vessels by means of their strong jaws, which are furnished with a sort of knife and fork arrangement. One small and new species of leech turned up with the rest of the animals.—Washington Correspondence. Boston Transcript.

AN INGENUOUS BRAHMA.

Hawk Foiled of His Prey by the Adroitness of a Hen.

J. C. Wheatan, living in this county, has some very fine banded Chukras which he raises for the Portland market, says a McKinney (Tex.) letter to the Philadelphia Times. While most of his poultry is all of the darker breeds, he recently imported a fine pair of white Brahmas, which in due course presented him with 16 chicks. Last week these little fellows were just good flying size and were ready prey for hawks, their white feathers gleaming in the sun and making them visible from afar. In fact, in spite of Wheatan's efforts, the hawks made away with six of the young Brahmas.

One morning, however, after the remaining ten had been duly accounted for the night before, Wheatan was surprised, on going to the poultry yard, to see not one single white chicken. The Brahma cock and hen were there all right enough, but instead of their own snowy little ones ten bedraggled, cast-off looking black chicks peeped at their heels. For a long time Wheatan could not imagine what was the matter, but, by and by, he concluded that the little Brahmas had got in the soot box by accident and that they were still on hand, though somewhat discolored.

That night, however, he discovered that what he had attributed to error had been done deliberately and with wise intent. Before the old Brahma would let her little ones duck in for the night she made them tip and sputter in the big chicken trough by the wall. This done, she led the way to an old storehouse under the woodshed, and made every last chick of them pass through the pipe, wiping off the soot as they went. Of course, it stuck to their wet feathers, and the little fellows came out perfect blackamoors. The old hen circumvented the hawks, however. Her little brood runs about as gay as you please now, and not one has disappeared since. She hit upon so ingenious a plan for their protection.
